

The Wisconsin no-call list is a godsend that should not be altered to allow additional telemarketing. I do not consider that anyone has the right to disturb my privacy to try to sell me something. The American tradition of individual rights and responsibilities requires that as a consumer, I be able to go out and seek products I desire. It does not require that others come to me to sell.